SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

Good morning, have you seen any more "boguses"?

Seems to be some little discussion regarding what kind of coal C. C. Gillen burns. When a candidate for re-election gets so hard up for political campaign material that he has to resort to the coal bin, he is getting pretty "dirty".

Sheriff Edward Eiteljorge had tears in his eyes and was crying piteously, this morning when I happened into his office. "What in the world is the matter, Ed?" I exclaimed. "Just look here," he said as he handed me a summons he had just received from the Marion county court, which he was ordered to serve. As he handed it to me he pointed to two words, contained in the summons. They were "duces tecum." And, do you know, I couldn't help him a bit. "I don't know what they mean," said Ed "but I'm going to do my best. But, hereafter, when they send me a summons to serve, I wish they would leave out those strange, queer and unmeaning words."

Have you noticed the big T. A. T. and Western Express planes flying over Greencastle during the past few days. Didn't they look "nitty" and add an air of metropolitanism to Greencastle? I'll say they did. Well, let's vote for aviation.

The Water Works Co. safe was "tapped" last night for $113. And it was real money, there was no "watered" stock in the loot.

The more I think about that "duces tecum," the more I wonder what it means.

The cheering that greeted Judge James P. Hughes when he appeared at the Democratic rally Saturday night, indicated that the folks are now more interested, than ever, in making his majority an overwhelming one.

Joe Bomberger was sitting in my office this morning with his back towards the window, when a large tree on the Johnson property next door, was felled by workmen. Joe could not see the tree but could only hear the crash as it fell, and believe me, he sure got the scare of his bright life. "Why I thought it was coming right through the window," said Joe.

The Herald was especially honored this morning, when the city council, minus the Mayor, held a special meeting, on the sidewalks right out in front of the office. The meeting was to determine the fate of some trees, sidewalks etc., which are to be affected by the building of a new filling station on the corner next to the Herald office. The councilmen were attired in overcoats and seemed to enjoy their "curb stone" session. There were no casualties and everyone seemed in a happy frame of mind.

Just look what Raskob done !!!!

Vote for Aviation and keep Greencastle on the forward march. A vote for aviation, tomorrow, means a vote for Civic progress.

I'll bet the fellow who wrote the "boguses" is mighty proud of his efforts. It certainly was a "masterful" effort. Looks to me like Judge James P. Hughes ought to hire him as a publicity agent.

If I were a betting man, I would bet they would be elected tomorrow.

Speaking of flat tires, they always have plenty of air on top, but none to run on.

The second session will be Friday morning and the final meeting Friday afternoon. A luncheon for the visitors will be held Friday noon. The speakers scheduled include the following: Mrs. Robert E. The short course is intended to give the layman, particularly the club worker, a basis of appreciation of the fine arts, especially painting and sculpture. The demonstrations and lectures will give concrete information to art students, art teachers, and interested persons who wish guidance to a greater appreciation of works of art. The short course will furnish a demonstration of a type of community undertaking which can be carried out by a local organization.

NON-UNION COAL STORY BRANDED LIE BY GILLEN

FERD LUCAS, GREENCASTLE COAL DEALER MAKES AFFIDAVIT PROVING CHARGES OF TERRE HAUTE REPUBLICAN PRESS FALSE

Ferd Lucas, local coal dealer, branded tonight as false a statement appearing in a Terre Haute paper that C. C. Gillen, candidate for congress had burned non-union mined coal.

"You can brand it as an absolute lie, and I will give $1,000 for any affidavit I have signed to that extent and I will demand a retraction immediately. I have sold Mr. Gillen coal for 25 years and he has never bought anything but Indiana union mined coal. He and I were owners of a mine near Coal City, Ind. from 1917 to 1929 and we never used anything but union miners and never had any labor trouble."

"Several days ago two men came from Terre Haute and tried to get me to swear to a lie and I chased them from the office. I then furnished the following affidavit and request that it be published:

"State of Indiana, county of Putnam, ss:

"Ferd Lucas, being first sworn upon his oath, says that he is a resident of Greencastle, Ind., and has been engaged in the retail coal business for the past 28 years in said city. That he sold Courtland C. Gillen his coal for domestic use for the past 25 years, and that he has never delivered any coal in Mr. Gillen's basement except union mined coal; that Mr. Gillen now has in his basement coal mined in Indiana by union miners; that he inspected Mr. Gillen's basement today and he has about two tons of Indiana union mined coal therein and has no other kind of coal in the basement."

(Signed) FERD LUCAS

"Subscribed and sworn to before me this 25th day of October, 1930."

START WORK ON A NEW FILLING STATION HERE

J. P. JOHNSON CONSTRUCTION COMPANY OF INDIANAPOLIS START PREPARING TO ERECT PROPOSED SERVICE STATION AT CORNER OF JACKSON AND WALNUT STREETS

The J. P. Johnson construction company of Indianapolis started work this morning preparing for the erection of the proposed filling station, which is to be built on the lot owned by Mr. Johnson at the corner of Jackson and Walnut streets. Today workmen were busy removing two of the three big trees on the Jackson street side of the lot. It is understood that the station is to be leased to the Sinclair Oil company.

Members of the street committee of the Greencastle city council and Mr. Johnson visited the site this morning, and the committee, as empowered by the city council granted Mr. Johnson a permit to erect the building. The permit was granted after an understanding concerning the city's sidewalks on both sides of the lot had been reached. It will be necessary for Mr. Johnson to remove the present walks and replace them with material that will stand a heavier load.

It will also be necessary to slope the walks up where drives are made to permit cars to enter the station for service, but an agreement was reached between the parties, whereby most of the slope will be inside the walks and on the property owned by Mr. Johnson.

The property is a part of the estate of D. B. Johnson, and was formerly occupied by an old frame building. Mr. Johnson applied to the council for a permit to erect the filling station soon after his father's death, but the council refused to grant it until they had been shown plans and specifications and were assured that no harm would be done to the sidewalks.

Several months ago, however, the owner of the property removed the old frame building.

GILLEN CLOSES CAMPAIGN WITH BRILLIANT TALK

COURTROOM OF COUNTY COURT-HOUSE FILLED TO OVERFLOWING WHEN DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS SPEAKS SATURDAY NIGHT

GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Crowd Cheers Judge James P. Hughes Head of County Ticket—Other Candidates Are Introduced By Chairman—Earl Peter Speaks

C. C. Gillen, Greencastle attorney and Democratic candidate for congress from the Fifth congressional district brought his campaign in Putnam county to a close Saturday night when he spoke in the courtroom of the court house before one of the largest crowds of voters ever gathered to hear a political speaker in Putnam county. The large hall was filled to overflowing, and many would be listeners were turned away for the lack of standing room.

All of the county candidates were present at the meeting, and were introduced to the voters by county chairman, T. A. Sigler. Judge James P. Hughes, candidate for re-election came in late, and was greeted by the crowd arising en masse and cheering. Earl Peters, state chairman, was present and said a few words as did National committee woman, Mrs. James R. Briggs of Sullivan. There was a short program by the Greencastle band preceding the meeting.

Upon Gillen's entry of the room the crowd arose and cheered wildly. In his speech the candidate discussed brilliantly the issues of the campaign and assured the people that when he was elected he would represent them faithfully. In commenting on a recent editorial in the Terre Haute Post Mr. Gillen said he wished to thank the Republican press for branding him as a respectable citizen from a respectable community.

Mr. Gillen, discussing the problems of the farmer and the labor, stated that unless the wage earner had employment the farmer's market would be greatly curtailed as the great wage earning group consumes most of the farm produce ultimately. He also stated that the "Hawley-Smoot" tariff had thrown millions of men out of work by causing billions of American dollars to be invested abroad. This American capital was invested abroad in order that the business men might escape the retaliatory tariffs of consuming countries Gillen said.

"Farming, the basic industry of the United States," said Mr. Gillen, "is flat on its back. This fact the Republicans admitted in their campaign two years ago, and they promised immediate relief. However, the condition of the farmer has not been bettered."

It was pointed out by the speaker that while Farm Bureau head Mr. Legge was asking the farmers to curtail production, and was blaming over-production for the farmers' plight Senator James Watson was going over the state asserting that the farmer was suffering because of the drought, which had cut down the yield of the farm crops. Both were speaking in favor of the Hoover administration pretended attempt at farm relief.

"What the farmer needs," said Mr. Gillen, "is not charity, but an equality with other industries." He said that Noble Johnson, Republican candidate in his 1928 campaign had given the real reason for the farmers' plight. In a speech made at Russellville October 11, 1928, Mr. Johnson said, "we must raise agriculture to an equality with other industries or agriculture will drag other industries down to a level with it." "This has happened," said the Greencastle attorney, "under a Republican administration, but we do not find Mr. Johnson admitting it, or even sponsoring the statement now."

THIEVES OPEN COMPANY SAFE; LOOT IS $115

WORK COMBINATION ON SAFE IN OFFICE OF THE GREENCASTLE WATER WORKS COMPANY—RELOCK VAULT AFTER ROBBERY

DISCOVER THEFT EARLY TODAY

Entrance to Building Is Gained During Night by Unlocked Rear Door Officials Think—Fingerprints Destroyed

A thief or thieves opened the safe at the Greencastle Water Works company's office on South Jackson street sometime Saturday night or Sunday night and escaped with about $115 in bills of small denomination. The burglary was not discovered until this morning, when Mr. Orville Stewart, manager of the company opened the safe.

Entrance was gained, officials think through the rear door of the office, which had been left unlocked. Nothing was touched in the office with the exception of the safe the combination of which had been worked. After thoroughly ransacking the safe and taking the money the hoodlums locked it again and made their escape.

A small sum in $1 bills was overlooked by the thieves. Mr. Stewart said this morning in commenting on the robbery. He also said that the safe was an old one, and that the combination on it has never been changed although it has been in the office a number of years.

Upon discovering the robbery, Mr. Stewart called chief of police Otto Dobbs, and an investigation was made. No one could be found who had seen or heard the thief at work.

It was thought useless by authorities to finger print the safe as Mr. Stewart was forced to work the combination quite a while in opening it this morning and it is thought likely that he destroyed the prints made by the man who opened it during the night. However, a call was sent to O. D. Williams, head of the bureau of criminal identification at the Indiana State Farm at Putnamville.

GREENCASTLE SAILOR
WANTS TO COME HOME

The following article was taken from a Houston, Texas, paper and concerns Charles Vanhook, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Vanhook, south Indiana street road.

Anybody motoring up to Indiana or thereabout, around November 2? If so, an aviation mechanist's mate aboard the cruiser Houston would like to drive them up for his transportation.

He is C. E. Van Hook, crack mechanic and parachute jumper, whose home is in Greencastle, Indiana. He gets a 20-day leave, beginning November 2, the day before the cruiser leaves Galveston for the New York Navy yard.

Officers aboard the vessel speak highly of Van Hook's character.

Mr. Van Hook was a caller at The Herald office this morning. He is here for a short visit with relatives and friends. Following the publication of the above story in a Houston paper, Henry Renick, a former Greencastle business man, now living in Houston, called on Mr. Van Hook at his ship, and asked that he give his regards to all his old Greencastle friends. Mr. Renick resides at 1806 Drew Avenue, Houston, and formerly was engaged in the hardware business here. Van Hook is in the U. S. Navy aviation service, and is stationed on the battle ship Houston. He will join his ship, after his visit here, in New York.

Continuation D

Mr. Gillen offered two remedies, which if followed by the administration would bring relief to the farmer and the laborer. One was placing the tariff on a level where it would benefit the farmer and the wage earner, and not the men who hold stock in gigantic mergers, monopolies and trusts, and another was the equalization of the tax burden. "Prices must come down," the candidate said, "and the profits of stockholders in large concerns must be reasonable and not exorbitant."

In commenting on the tariff Mr. Gillen stated that the tariff should be kept at such a level that the wage earner could be paid a fair and decent wage, and that capital could have a fair return on its investment. However, he pointed out, under the present tariff the trusts and combines are able to fix their own prices, and to declare exorbitant dividends.

The speaker stated that by the equalization of the tax burden capital would be brought out of hiding, and invested in businesses that would give the laborer employment. Mr. Gillen suggested an income tax. Under the present system a farmer's tax remains the same despite the fact that his income might be cut in half. The burden should be equalized and the owner of intangible property taxed as well as the owner of real estate according to the speaker.

In bringing his speech to a close the speaker assured the voters that he would always vote for their interests, if he was elected, and as the representative from the fifth district he would represent the people of the fifth district, and not the privileged few.

Hints For Homemakers
By Jane Rogers

ARTICHOKES deserve a more frequent appearance on our menus. They are easy to prepare and add a note of real distinction to the meal. Soak in cold, salted water for five minutes. Drain, place compactly in pot and cook slowly in boiling, salted water until tender. Serve as vegetable or salad with mayonnaise dressing.

Keeping comfortably warm when the mercury persistently hovers in the lower half of the thermometer is a matter of diet as well as of proper clothing and close attention to the furnace. The carbohydrates, particularly sugar, are nature's great fuel foods, providing the body with internal warmth.

THE JOHNSON "BUST"

That the Republicans of the Fifth District are getting scared over their chances to re-elect Noble Johnson, of Terre Haute, as Congressman, is evidenced by the bitter fight being waged by the Terre Haute Republican press upon Mr. Gillen.

Front page editorials attacking Mr. Gillen for not having written any books; lived on the farm all his life; delivered no lectures on governmental problems. And the same things charged against Mr. Johnson. About the only difference is that Mr. Gillen has made good on his every understanding and Mr. Johnson has not, especially as a representative in Congress. Whoever heard of a book by Mr. Johnson; who ever heard of his having any personal interests in farming; who ever heard of his delivering any "lectures" on governmental problems. About the only thing one hears about Mr. Johnson is that he is appointed a Clinton man as postmaster at Terre Haute. Lots of folks have heard that and Mr. Johnson has heard it many and many a time. As a Congressman he certainly has proven a "bust." The Terre Haute Post in a wild outburst says that Mr. Gillen was defeated for election as councilman in the second ward, while every other Democratic candidate for city office was elected. This is about the only true statement made in the latter attack of the Post. We will admit the truth of that statement but, it should be further said that he was defeated by about 50 votes in a ward that polls at least 450 Republican. Not so bad for a "poor runner" is it.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE:

In your paper on Tuesday, October 28, I notice an article based on misinformation. Upon investigation I found that townships are supported by the state from three different funds. All townships are paid out of the State Congressional Township fund and the State Common School fund in proportion to the enumeration. Also corporation employing Smith-Hughes Vocational teachers are reimbursed by the state for a part of the salary. In addition to these financial helps we have the State Aid fund which is distributed in accordance to the valuation of the township and the most of the minimum essentials of running expenses for the township. If a township is entitled to help from this fund and the township trustee neglects or fails to get up his application and records and make application and in the legal way he is guilty of neglect of duty. Mr. Chew is to be commended for his interest and work in preparing the application for our part of this fund.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TELL ADVANTAGES OF LANDING FIELD

Following are three grade school pupil stories on the advantage to Greencastle of an airport.

ADVANTAGES OF A CITY OWNED AIRPORT

I think a city owned airport would have more advantages than a private airport. Greencastle would also be a more important city. We also would be moving up to a more standard way of transportation. An airport might help the city to become larger. If we had an airport the other cities, towns and states might begin to take interest and build them airports. That way the U. S. A. would be larger and more progressive than other counties. An airport would give Greencastle means of swift communication with the outside world. It would attract to Greencastle visitors who might not otherwise come.

REASONS FOR THE CITY OWNING AN AIRPORT

Since the Chamber of Commerce has been so kind and considerate as to purchase such a beautiful and convenient location for an airport, it certainly is an opportunity the city should not neglect.

The proposed location is accessible and convenient to Greencastle and locality because it is near the National highway.

There is such a slight increase in taxes that no public spirited citizen should let this interfere with the plans for anything as beneficial as an airport would prove to be.

There is no doubt that the city of Greencastle will be greatly benefited if it grasps this great opportunity as there would be a great many more business men interested in the city. More trade would come to business places that are already here.

The city would gradually grow especially towards the location of the airport making an increased business in real estate and building companies.

An airport would class Greencastle with the leading cities of the United States as mail would be a great help to the city and surrounding communities.

If the airport is owned by an individual or some company it will be operated for profit entirely. Greencastle will get very little good of it. The company can charge any price, it at any time chooses. If it would make money for a company, why not for the city.

These and many reasons not mentioned should convince the public that an airport would be a valuable addition to the city. Above all let us be progressive.

OUR AIRPORT

The reasons I think Greencastle should have a municipal airport is that then all kinds of airships could land. If it were a privately owned airport no government planes could land. We couldn't have the well-furnished airport the government would have. If it were a government owned airport we would have the use of it, while the government would have to pay the expenses. If our airport is a municipal airport we would probably be on the direct air line from Louisville to Chicago and on the direct airline from Indianapolis to Terre Haute. It will be just like the Court House and hospital. When they were voting on them nobody knew they would be such a help. The airport is the same way. It will be a great airport when it has been there several years from now. I do hope it will be a municipally owned airport, and help to make Greencastle a progressive city.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

USE DENATURED ALCOHOL AS A DRINK; TWO DIE

THREE OTHERS IN HOSPITAL AT MUNCIE IN SERIOUS CONDITION —PURCHASE ALCOHOL AT FILLING STATION—POLICE QUELL DISTURBANCE

MUNCIE, NOV. 3.—The death toll of drinking party indulged in here by five men mounted to four this morning, when Ernest Smith and Samuel Bloom died in a local hospital. Death resulted from drinking denatured alcohol physician report. The fifth man of the quintet, Elmer Bachelor is expected to die.

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 3.—Two men are dead and three more are in critical condition as the result of drinking denatured alcohol purchased last night at a local filling station.

The dead are Arthur Shoecraft, 49 years old, negro, Muncie; James Brown, 38, negro, 2546 Martindale avenue, Indianapolis. Those in the hospital are: Ernest Smith, negro, Muncie; Sam Bloom, white, Muncie; Elmer Bachelor, white of Muncie.

The men purchased the alcohol from a local filling station which kept the compound as an anti-freeze solution for automobile radiators.

Drinking started at the home of Shoecraft last night and police were called to quell a disturbance which resulted from a drunken quarrel. Shoecraft and Brown were placed in jail where they remained last night. They were released this morning, however, and returned to Shoecraft's home, where it is believed they continued drinking.

Shoecraft was found dead on a bed in his home and Brown was found seriously ill, along with Bloom, Bachelor and Smith. All four men were taken to a hospital where Brown died shortly after being admitted.

Attaches of the hospital reported the condition of the three men as very serious.

VONCASTLE
 "Rain or Shine" Amuses Audience at Voncastle

The endlessly surprising Joe Cook triumphs over the talkies in his debut in "Rain or Shine," which Columbia Pictures have ably transferred from stage to screen. It opened at the Voncastle Theatre yesterday and received a tremendously enthusiastic reception and plays again today and Tuesday.

Joe Cook is an amazing personality. He is something distinctly different and altogether refreshing. He is an aggregation of stars. When single handed he attempts to replace the entire personnel of a three-ring circus, and does it successfully, too, the spectators emotions were a complication of hilarity and amazement.

The big cast of movie stars, including Louise Fazenda, Joan Peers, William Collier, Jr., Alan Roscoe and Adolph Milar acquit themselves most creditably. Louise Fazenda plays one of those exaggerated comedy roles for which she is famous. It is a masterpiece in caricature. Teamed with the ridiculous antics of Tom Howard, it is a delight to behold.

TIGER CUB GRIDDERS MEET CRAWFORDSVILLE MONDAY

The Greencastle high school footballers left for Crawfordsville shortly after noon today, and are scheduled to meet the Crawfordsville eleven at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The trip was made by automobiles, and the Tiger Cub gridders were accompanied by their mentor, M. E. Bausman and a number of Greencastle fans.

Coach W. E. Bausman has been drilling his boys on a defense against the forward pass for the past week as in games here-to-fore they have been weak in that department. Bausman said this morning that he expected to annex the game despite the fact that his team is composed of all green material, and have failed to win a tilt this season.

The entire Tiger Cub football squad made the trip. The probable starting lineup is Webb and Shonkwiler, ends; Taylor and Jones, tackles; Allen and Ison, guards; Brown, center; Godfrey, quarterback; Comstock and Bolander, halfbacks and Rockhill, fullback.

After today's contest only one game remains on the Tiger Cub grid card. On the evening of November 11 the Purple and Gray footballers will journey to Brazil, where they will close season with a night contest against the Red Devils.

Huge Electric Clock Tells Time For Football Games at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass.—A huge electric clock to answer the thousands of queries heard at every football game, "How many minutes to play?" has been installed in Harvard Stadium here. It is the first electric timing device to be used in the American gridiron game.

The clock made its debut in the Harvard-Army classic on October 18 before 60,000 spectators, after it had been carefully tested in early-season contests, and scored a complete success. Near the end of the second half, when the Army backfield was pounding at Harvard's line for a second touchdown, it seemed that most of the 60,000 people had one eye on the scrimmage and one eye on the clock. The newest scientific aid to sports has a dial ten feet in diameter which is divided into fifteen intervals of one minute each. A pointer, operated by a specially designed electric telechron movement, makes one revolution around the dial in fifteen minutes, or the length of a quarter of play. The big spectators' clock is connected with a small electric control clock placed at the sideline timers' bench. Here there is a switch, which operates both clocks. Both dials are marked in exactly the same manner and they are perfectly synchronized. At the start of each quarter the pointers of the two clocks are set at zero. When play starts the timekeeper puts the switch to "On," which starts the clocks electrically, and watches the game very carefully—his attention, incidentally, not being subject to interruptions by persons wanting to know how many minutes are left to play. This condition is always a source of trouble when the sideline timekeeper uses a stop watch. When time is taken out during the game the timekeeper throws his switch to "Off" and both clocks stop. When the play resumes the switch goes to "On" again.

types of man. The hero of our story, the young journalist, Paul L. Hoefler, gained a great deal of experience from the trip and learned several of the native languages. Being ambitious and seeing great possibilities for further research upon the dark continent, Hoefler was not contented until he had organized another party. Back in Colorado he devoted his entire time to raising funds for a second trip which was to be known as the Colorado African Expedition and it is of this trip that our narrative relates. After several banquets, given by well wishers, Paul L. Hoefler and his companions, with motion picture cameras and apparatus for recording sound left Colorado in an attempt to follow the equator across Central Africa, a feat never before attempted. Stout of heart, full of courage, and expecting to suffer from heat, thirst and exhaustion they left on their eventful journey on the 18th of July, 1928. A few weeks later Hoefler and his companion Charles landed at Lagos, where the expedition was outfitted and supplied. The actual starting place in Africa was the little village of Akassa, which sits on the equatorial heat on the mud flats of Niger River, a spot over 10,000 miles away from the home land.
